

NEW FEARS HELD FOR KING GEORGE

SECOND DEATH FROM MALADY OCCURS HERE

Commercial Point Resident Succumbs To Influenza—Many Cases Reported

Influenza claimed its second victim in Pickaway county, when Mrs. A. L. Barnhouse, 77, of Commercial Point, died at her home, today.

Another victim of the malady was John Jones, of Clarksburg, of the Bazarre mill, who died at his home Sunday morning after a brief illness.

Barnhouse is survived by three daughters and one son. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday in the Commercial Point cemetery by A. J. Jones.

Influenza is steadily gaining headway in Circleville with new cases reported daily.

Reported Washington-twip section in the county which has been hit by the malady as families are reported down to flu.

A basketball game scheduled for Thursday evening between the Williamsport and Williamsport was delayed due to the number of influenza in Williamsport.

One was to have been played at Derbyville but the Williamsport teams were so invaded by influenza that the game had to be postponed until a future date.

Those ill in Circleville are: Mrs. J. Johnson, S. Pickaway, Mrs. J. E. Valentine, E. A. L. Barnhouse, Mrs. B. T. E. Main-st., C. M. Clay, Mrs. J. Wallace, Mrs. J. C. Court, Mrs. B. K. Reed, Mrs. J. A. Jones, Mrs. J. E. Brown, Mrs. J. H. Sark, Mrs. J. M. and Mrs. Edwin Washington-twip; Mrs. Ray Washington-twip; Mr. Adam List, Jackson-twip; Mr. List, Jackson-twip.

Wins "Dry" Prize

Major Chester P. Mills, U. S. A., retired, ex-prohibition administrator for New York, who won $25,000 prize offered by W. C. Durant for "the best and most practicable plan for making the eighteenth amendment effective." Nub of the Mills plan is more rigid control of industrial alcohol.

ADVERTISING GETS PRAISE

Lawrence Goeller Addresses Rotary Club On "Buying and Selling."

Lawrence Goeller, at their weekly meeting on "Buying and Selling" by Rotary Lawrence Goeller. Lawrence is one of the members of the firm of M. G. Goellers Sons Co., broom manufacturers, and also operates the Kippy-Kit factory, one of Circleville's promising new industries.

At times times it was up to the buyer to beware when making a purchase, but as times and business conditions changed it became more for the seller to beware, Mr. Goeller said. In the early days of business it was the shrewdest buyer or seller that was the winner and after the sale was made there was no chance for recourse.

As times changed business practices were put on a higher level and today only the seller who deals honestly with the public can expect to enjoy the confidence of the public, and continue to serve.

Today as never before the manufacturer and seller are placed on a fair dealing and when they fail to do so are soon overtaken by their competitors who have been honest in their dealings.

Advertising has played a big part in placing business on this higher level, Mr. Goeller declared. The advertiser has come to appreciate the fact that only honest advertising will be profitable to his business and only such advertising has been placed above his signature.

BAD FAITH OF BOLIVIA ARMY NOTE CHARGE

Paraguayan Representative Declares Enemy Is Moving Troops Forward.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—Charges that Bolivia has reoccupied Fort Vanguardia and advanced 12 miles farther into disputed boundary territory, were contained in a note delivered to the state department and to Chairman Maury of the Pan American special mediation committee today by Charge Ramirez of the Paraguayan legation here.

The note said the new alleged move had created a "grave situation" and accused Bolivia of making the advance by "taking advantage of the order given Paraguayan troops to cease hostilities."

This information "shows Bolivia has not complied with its promises and a very grave situation again is created because Paraguay alone cannot avoid new fighting," the note said.

The Bolivian and Paraguayan governments had declared all troop movements had been ordered stopped after both had accepted the good offices of the Inter-American conciliation conference here to mediate the recent boundary trouble.

It was feared the new development might delay the efforts of the conference to bring about a conciliatory settlement of the dispute.

SURPRISE EXPRESSED

Dr. Maury appeared greatly surprised at the new developments. "I was under the impression last night after conferring with the Paraguayan delegate that we would get a favorable reply from that government on the proposal sent it and Bolivia," Dr. Maury told the United Press.

"I will confer with the Paraguayan and Bolivian delegates as soon as possible and probably call a special meeting of my committee if the Paraguayan charges are brought out."

Bolivian minister Diez de Medina told the United Press he had received no official confirmation of these charges and until he had heard from his government would make no comment.

29 HOLDING OUT IN TALK MARATHON
NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Twenty-nine stout-junged talkers were still at it up at the 71st regiment armory today where the "noun and verb" marathon is settling down into the home stretch.

In Hoover's Cabinet?

Julius Rosenwald (above), multi-millionaire Chicago merchant and philanthropist, is reported to have been offered post of secretary of commerce in cabinet of President-elect Hoover. No confirmation could be had either from Mr. Rosenwald or persons known to be high in the president-elect's councils.

HOOVER MUM ON CABINET

President-elect Silent About Appointments As Ship Ploughs Homeward.

ABOARD THE USS. UTAH, Dec. 28.—President-elect Herbert Hoover and his party homeward-bound from a goodwill tour of South America were in the open sea today for the first time since the party left San Pedro, Calif., more than a month ago on the USS Maryland.

Cape Saint Roque, the most northeasterly point on the steamship lanes, has been passed and the Utah was sailing out of sight of land toward the equator. The equator will be reached today but there will be no Father Neptune visit to the Utah as there was to the Maryland, since everyone aboard has been across the line and are old-times in the "shell-back" world.

The vessel still has a ten-day trip to Hampton Roads, where the party will disembark Jan. 6, for its trip to Washington by special train.

Ever since the president-elect decided to go to Washington instead of Florida for a rest after his trip, the wireless of the Utah has been kept constantly busy transmitting his messages to party and congressional leaders in Washington.

Final arrangements for the discussions of pressing home affairs which he will hold with the party leaders have been completed. There has been no official word issued regarding the conferences, nor have there been any indications regarding the makeup of the cabinet which will take office with Mr. Hoover on March 4.

3 TRUE BILLS IN ELECTION PROBE

WEST UNION, O., Dec. 28.—The county grand jury has voted three secret indictments in connection with alleged election frauds here, it was learned today. Thirty-two witnesses appeared before the jury during the inquiry.

The probe was started when E. S. Wilks, of Wellston, carried Mt. Union in the judicial election. Although he lost Mt. Union, Judge J. S. Thomas of Portsmouth was re-elected.

Ted, Raccoon Coat, and Sports Car Resume Road Tours for Jazz Fans

Circleville's Famous Thespian Passes Up $2,000 to Spend Christmas At Home.

A number of years ago if someone had told Theodore Friedman that he would pass up 2,000 bucks in order to spend a few days and nights in Circleville, he would have suggested a mental diagnosis, but that is what he did the day before Christmas in order to be with his mother, Mrs. Benjamin Friedman, over the holiday.

He came to Circleville from New York City where he and his band were playing at the Orpheum in Brooklyn. This was the delayed trip that had been promised for Pumpkin Show, but which he was unable to make. Mrs. Lewis was detained in New York by the serious illness of her father.

His engagement at the Orpheum for a $1,000 a night, was cut short by two nights in order to be in Circleville, Ohio, the town made famous by his quips on the stage, for Christmas. He was accompanied by his raccoon coat and Cadillac sport car. The latter received a broken windshield Tuesday on a trip to Lancaster where Mr. Lewis visited his brother, Edgar Friedman, and family. Polly, Anna, Friedman, Mrs. Benjamin Friedman, Milton Friedman and Mrs. Max Friedman made the Lancaster trip with him.

One of Ted's characteristics, his love for children, is as apparent now as it was years ago when he used to entertain them for hours in Circleville. He was in his element Monday night when he was present at the Municipal Christmas tree at the court house.

Wednesday afternoon he caused quite a furore in hotel circles in Columbus when he arrived unannounced, and was quickly recognized by everyone. "The Jazz King" makes and keeps friends wherever he goes.

He left Thursday afternoon for Cincinnati where he opened an engagement Thursday night at Castle Farm. He will play there on New Year's eve.

Next month Ted will go to California where he will embark upon a new field with his genius for jazz. He expects to make a Vitaphone picture that will require three months for production. It is reported that the picture will be laid in a town like Circleville, with a number of scenes laid during the Pumpkin Show. Ted's trade mark expression "Is Everybody Happy?" is said to be the name of the new production.

HUSBAND HELD IN DEATH CASE

Husband of Woman Who Slew Coal Dealer Is Charged With Her Murder.

CANTON, Dec. 28.—Wilbur O. Heldman, Lorain furnace salesman, was formally charged with murder today in connection with the death of his wife, Margaret, the phantom gun woman, who was shot to death after she confessed killing Vernard Fearn, Waco coal dealer.

Fearn, with whom the gun girl admitted intimacies, was shot to death on the night of Dec. 6. A week later Mrs. Heldman confessed and her husband bundled her in his car and started for Canton to surrender her.

Enroute the gun woman was shot and killed. Heldman claimed she committed suicide. After an investigation he was held under $25,000 bond as a material witness.

The warrant was shown out by Coroner T. C. McQuitz, before Justice of the Peace Donald Smyth.

The county grand jury will receive the charge when it convenes on Jan. 7. Heldman, meanwhile, is still held in lieu of bail.

FARM TO CITY TREND SHOWN

Scientists Consider Problems Arising From Change—Value Pasture Lands.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Within a generation the United States has ceased to be a nation primarily interested in agriculture. Children now are born in hospitals rather than homes and they spend their lives in cities rather than among pastures and farm lands.

Problems arising from this swift change were discussed today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science by Dr. William O. Vinal of Western Reserve university.

In Limelight Again

Our Mary's little sister, Lottie, just can't seem to keep out of the limelight even if it's shed around the police station. Miss Pickford, after recent kidnap tale, is center of a probe to find out what happened at Christmas eve party in her Hollywood home, in which Dan Jaeger, retired millionaire, and Jack Daugherty, western star, engaged in fistfists before assembled guests.

SMUGGLING OF GEMS SERIOUS

American Jewelers to Renew Fight For Lower Tariff Rates on Diamonds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28.—The $100,000,000 a year diamond smuggling racket will be taken up by congress in the next few weeks.

American jewelers are expected to renew before the ways and means committee hearing on the new tariff bill their demand for reduction or elimination of the 20 per cent import duty on these precious gems.

The high protective tariff on gems has been the ruin of legitimate jewelers, according to complaints previously made by them, because of the ease in smuggling diamonds.

Recent raids by custom officials who have seized hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of diamonds off ships in Norfolk have merely nicked the surface of the illegal business, they claim.

The diamonds are brought in from Belgium and Holland, where most of the world's diamonds are cut. The value is so great that the 20 per cent duty is a sizeable item, and the jewelers who purchase legitimate imported stones are faced with ruinous competition they claim.

RETIRE FARMER DIES WEDNESDAY

Wesley Wright 72 retired farmer died at his home in Clarksburg at 2:30 a. m. Wednesday from infirmities of age.

His widow and a son John Wright, at home survive.

Funeral services for Mr. Wright will be held at his late home on Sunday at 2 p. m. with interment in Frankfort cemetery. Metzger and Fesper funeral directors are in charge.

STRENGTH IS WORSE NEED OF MONARCH

Difficulty Encountered In Getting Royal Patient To Take Nourishment.

LONDON, Dec. 28.—The king, after more than five weeks of serious illness, caused anxiety to his doctors today by his failure to show the improvement which had been expected.

After a midday bulletin which said the king had improved after a fair night, an official statement was issued at 3:05 p. m. announcing that "there was no change in the king's condition this afternoon."

The first disturbing bulletin in more than a week was issued last night, when the doctors announced that the king was not maintaining his strength satisfactorily. After a consultation of five physicians today, it was announced that while the local infection in the king's right lung had improved, his general condition did not show the same progress.

NO CHANGE REPORTED
Lord Dawson of Penn, who spent four hours at Buckingham palace this morning, made another visit of half an hour this afternoon. When he left, the announcement that there had been no change was made.

The Prince of Wales visited the palace this morning and again this afternoon. Princess Mary postponed a visit she had planned to Harewood House, the residence of her father-in-law, where her two infant sons are staying.

Members of the palace staff were disturbed by the weakness indicated in the physicians' reports. The king's condition was pressed over the very slight change in the improvement during the last few days was enhanced by reliable information from the doctors that the progress noted in successive bulletins was actually slower than had been expected.

NEEDS NOURISHMENT
The chief difficulty has been in getting the king to take the nourishment necessary to the building up of his strength. It has been mostly administered in a concentrated form and the king had occasionally been able to take a small part of an egg.

It was officially announced that the physicians would return to the custom of issuing two bulletins daily. For several days only one bulletin was issued, it being indicated that the changes in the king's condition were so slight that there was no necessity for two bulletins.

ROCKEFELLER PAYS HUGE SUM IN DEAL

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has purchased the property between 40th and 51st streets and Fifth and Sixth avenues for a site for the new metropolitan opera house, it was reported today.

This property has been held by the Columbia university. The purchase price is said to have been more than $100,000,000, although last August, when it was first reported that Rockefeller had taken an option on the properties, value was estimated at between $40,000,000 and $80,000,000.

The plans for the new opera house call for a site in the block between Forty-ninth and Fiftieth streets.

CHICKEN THIEVES SENTENCED TO PEN

LONDON, Dec. 28.—Three convicted chicken thieves were meted out penitentiary sentences Thursday by Judge E. F. Middleton of Urbana, after they denied their application for a new trial. One of them was a 17-year-old boy.

Edward Griggs, 30, said to have been a lay preacher, was given three and a half years. A brother, William, 17, was given three years and Dewey Ripston, 28, two and a half years.

The men were convicted of stealing $10 worth of chickens from a farm near South Solon, near London.

Dazzy Vance Ace of Senior League Hurler

BROOKLYN'S PITCHER IS SHY ON RUNS

Larry Benton, Giant Star, Leads League in Number Games Won and Lost

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—National League pitching honors for 1928 go to Dazzy Vance, ace of the Brooklyn pitching staff, official records released here showed today.

Vance wound up the 1928 season with an earned run average of 2.09 per nine innings, and finished far ahead of other pitchers of the circuit. Sheriff Blake, Chicago, next in line, had an average of 2.45 earned runs.

Further proof of Vance's ability was shown in the record of games won and lost. Dazzy won 22 and lost 10 games for a percentage of .688. Only three National leaguers did better.

SEVENTH SEASON
The past season was Vance's seventh as a major leaguer and his record of 200 strikeouts for the year resulted in his seventh consecutive league strikeout championship. Over that period of time Vance fanned 1,358 opposing batters.

Larry Benton, Giant's star, led the league in games won and lost with 25 wins, 9 defeats and a percentage of .735. Jess Haines of the Cardinals was second with a record of 20-8, .715. Fred Fitzsimmons of the Giants also won 20 games but lost one more than Haines and finished third with a .690 percentage.

Two pitchers discarded during the last two years by the New York Giants, turned in fine records with other teams. Burleigh Grimes, in the uniform of Pittsburgh, tied Benton for the most victories with 25, but lost 14 and finished with a percentage of .641 and an earned average of 2.99.

Art Nehf whom the Giants unconditionally released two years ago, was third in the league earned column with an average of 2.64. He also won 13 and lost 7 games for the Chicago Cubs.

GRIMES IRON MAN
Grimes was the iron man of the season, taking part in 48 games and pitching 331 complete innings. He fanned 1,377 batters—more Konjola Gave Quick and Lasting Relief From Stomach Trouble, After All Else Had Failed.

MR. J. E. COX.

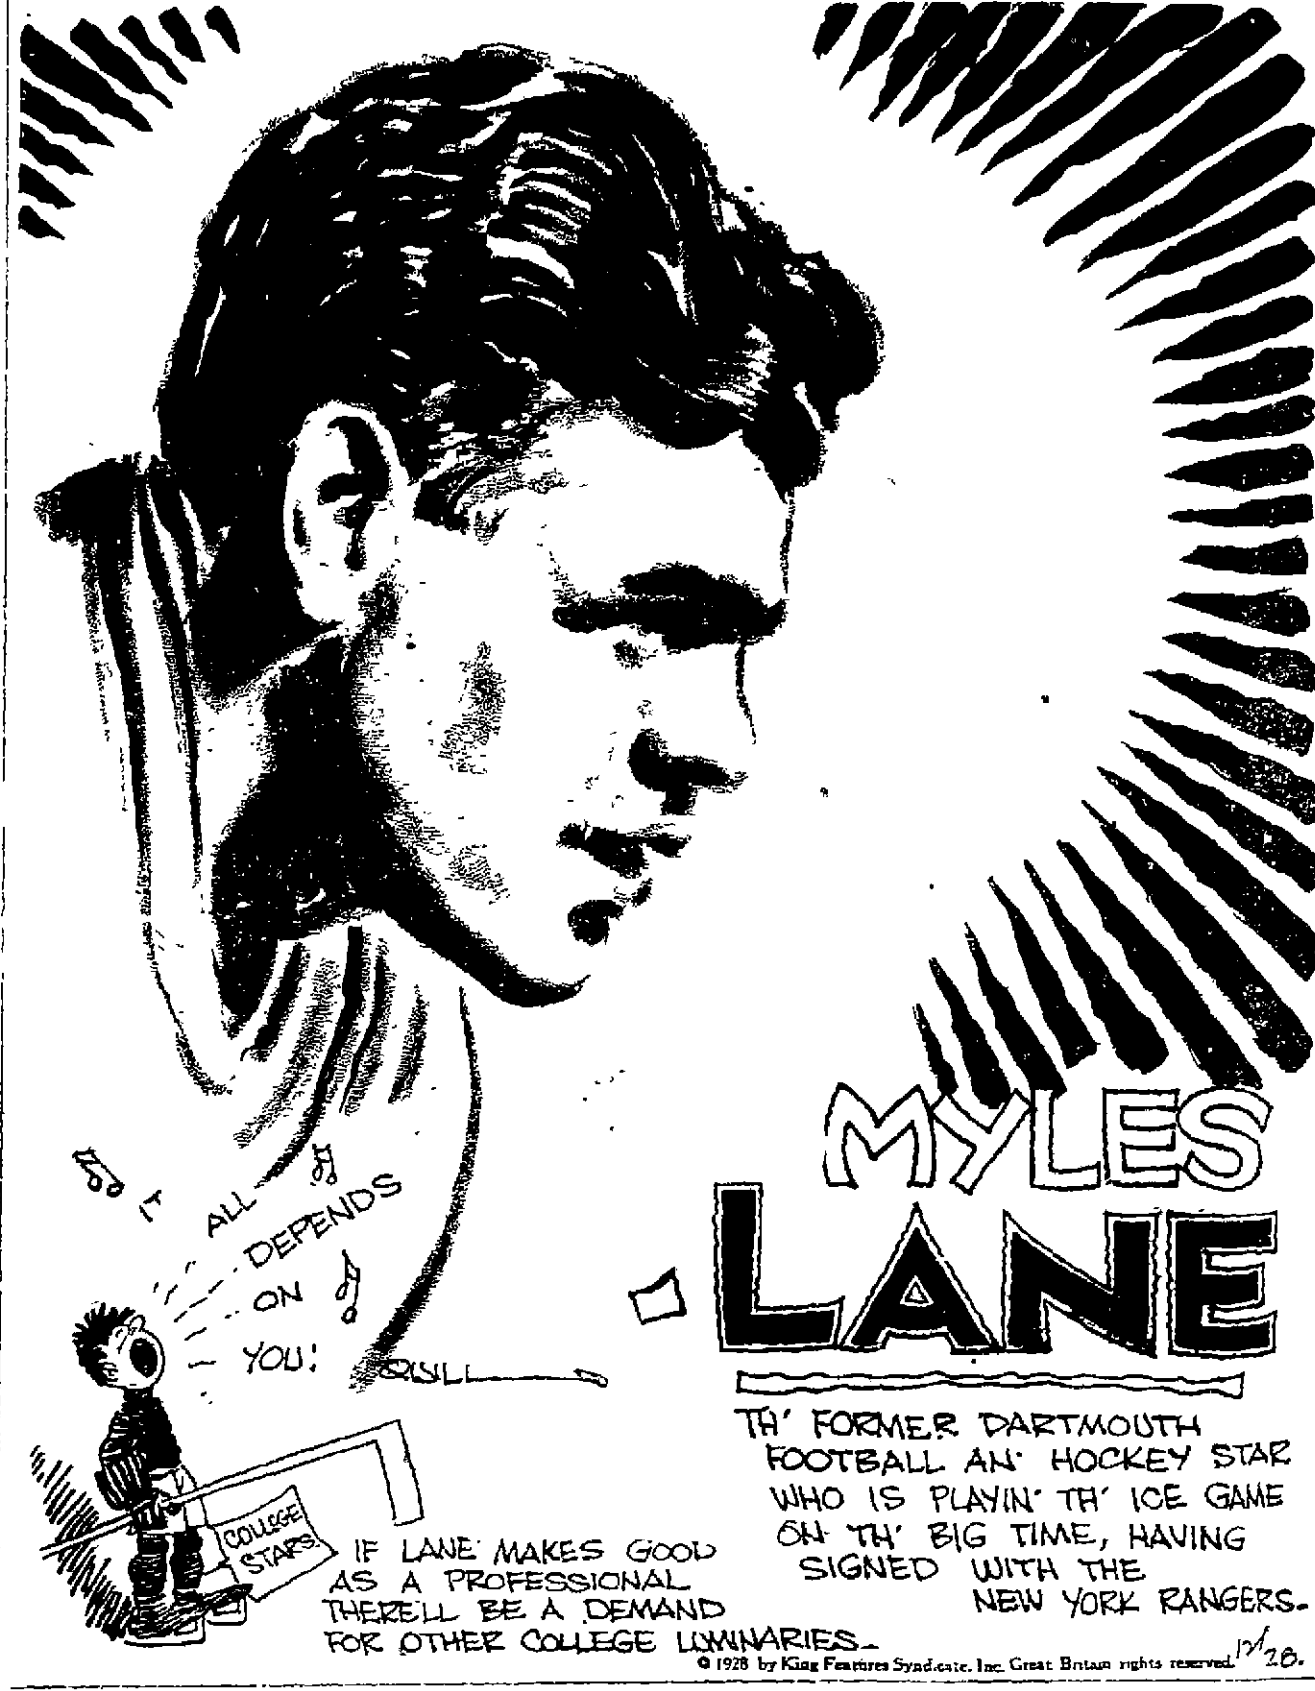

From thousands of hearts, young and old alike pour words of gratitude and praise for Konjola, the new medicine that banished pain and disease when all else had failed. Imagine the joy of Mr. J. E. Cox, 732 Broadway, Washington Court House, Ohio, when he writes:

"When one medicine can end twenty years of suffering for a person at the age of 73, you know that medicine has exceptional merit, and that is exactly what Konjola has done for me. Stomach trouble was the worst of my worries, bringing gas bloating, indigestion pains and their companion sensations. Constipation made everything a great deal worse and this constant suffering made life almost unbearable.

"One day I read of Konjola relieving a neighbor of mine who suffered with his stomach about the same as me. Right then I made up my mind to try this medicine. What a blessing it turned out to be. It was exactly what I had always needed. All my health miseries are gone and life is a brighter outlook. Even my wife has become a pleasure. I will always be glad to tell about Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Circleville, O., at Dr. J. E. Cox's Pharmacy, and by all druggists throughout this

JACKSON FIVE GAINS VICTORY

Soils Quintet Takes Hard Fought Game From Darbyville Independents.

The Jackson Soils class won a nice victory over the Darbyville Independents at the Darbyville high school Thursday evening by a score of 39 to 37.

The game was fast and thrilling and furnished good amusement for basketball fans in the county. The Soils classes have staged some real games and have met some of the best teams in the county.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 15 to 7 in favor of the Jackson five. At the half the score was 19 to 9. From then on it was real game filled with real action and fast playing.

Both teams scored 16 points in the third quarter. Wagner, left guard in the Jackson team, was taken from the game with an injured finger and the standing of the team was greatly lowered as this player was close on Walker, star for the Darbyville team. Darbyville put up a good scrap to win the game but time was against them giving Jackson the lead at the end of the game.

This is the second time these two teams have met on the hard court. At the first game the Darbyville team defeated Jackson. The Jackson team claims the defeat was due to the fact its two star forwards were out of the game.

The scoring follows:

ACE AND RENE TO FIGHT IN GARDEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Ace Hudkins and Rene Devos, middleweights meet tonight at Madison Square Garden. The bout has been heralded as the one which will decide the next opponent of Micky Walker, champion of the division.

In spite of the excessive ballyhoo which has attended preparations for the fight, sports critics here are agreed that both Devos and Hudkins are sturdy and well matched.

The Belgian has been an 8 to 5 favorite throughout the training period but a report late yesterday that he was having a hard time getting within the 160 pound limit, shortened the odds.

Should Devos have difficulty with the scales when the pair weigh in this afternoon, it is likely that the ace will enter the ring at least on even terms.

LONG BEACH GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENED

LONG BEACH, Calif., Dec. 28.—The annual $5,000 Long Beach open golf tournament opened today with two erstwhile "dark horses," who won the preliminary 18-hole round yesterday, sharing attention with many nationally known golfers.

Oscar Omon, Missouri Professional, and Frank Brokel, St. Paul amateur, tied for first honors in the Pro-Amateur event with cards of 64 for the 18 holes, while two teams were even for second place with 65's. They were Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico, and Virgina Van Wie, Chicago; Cooper, Buffalo, and Dick Los Angeles.

Eighteen holes will be played today, the same number 36 and the final round Sunday.

FREAK SHOT WIN LANCASTER G

LANCASTER, Dec. 28.—Lancaster High basketball team two games from Nelsonville. Lancaster boys were winning to 9, and girls, 14 to 13. Lancaster's history was a record of 10 wins and 10 losses, standing directly in the way of the team's advancement to the state championship. The team's last game was a 14 to 13 win over the Lancaster team. The team's last game was a 14 to 13 win over the Lancaster team. The team's last game was a 14 to 13 win over the Lancaster team.

PROBLEMS DIFFER IN SOUTH AFRICA

Brickmaking Is Farm Task There—Laborer Gets "Two Bob", a Day.

Farm problems vary more widely than the problems of any other industry. Brickmaking could not rate as an agricultural activity in Ohio. But there are farmers who are intensely interested in the subject, and who demand expert advice.

In the Orange Free State of South Africa where brick yards are few and far between, the farmer who wants bricks for building purposes on his farm, must produce them himself. And in the Orange Free State, gives explicit directions which are interesting to Ohio farmers in contrast to conditions in this state.

Twenty-three pages, copiously illustrated, suffice the lecturer is the author of the bulletin.

to cover the subject from the selection of the site of the brickyard and the soil suitable for the manufacture of the brick, to a summary of the costs. Here it appears that the actual labor of the operation was performed by natives who drew down two shillings or about 50 cents a day for their work—which wouldn't tempt many Ohio farm laborers.

A "pug-mill" manufactured from odds and ends found about the farm—which, in that respect, seems to resemble the Ohio farm—is recommended for mixing the earth from which the bricks are moulded, with a donkey as motive power. But the lecturer avers that "in the event of the absence of a pug-mill the mixing can be carried out by natives wielding shovels and tramping the mixture with their feet." Fancy an Ohio farm hand mixing a batch of concrete with his feet and getting 50 cents a day for the job!

LOANS UP TO $500

Farewell to 1928—a year of politics, pow-wows and past-due bills. And especially bills. More than ten thousand families borrowed from The City Loan during the past year for the purpose of paying their bills and grouping their scattered debts. These people who now realize the advantage of just one place to pay have been able to substantially reduce their debt and still have more money for their own personal enjoyment. Some of them have entirely paid out their loans and are "square with the world." The City Loan way is the ideal way to settle up.

You just have time to arrange a loan and clean the slate of all your bills before the new year comes—it's just around the corner. May it bring you added happiness and prosperity.

How to Play BRIDGE

Series 1928-29 by Wynne Ferguson
Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

ARTICLE No. 19

Contract Bridge has been making great progress lately and is now being played in many of the New York Card Clubs. The greatest objection to it as a Club game was the length of the rubber; but now that the game is better understood it is found that the average rubber of Contract is no longer than one of Auction. As a result, it is being played at the Card Clubs almost to the exclusion of Auction and a new Contract Code has now been prepared. The Whist Club of New York was the principal Club back of this movement, but its Committee was assisted by Committees from the Knickerbocker Whist Club, the Racquet and Tennis Club, the Cavendish Club and The American Whist League. Therefore the new Code is a more representative Code than any of the Auction Codes that have preceded it. The fact that these representative Clubs of New York City have recognized the game and have drawn up laws to govern its play is a pretty good indication that Contract is here to stay.

One of the most puzzling questions of bidding at Contract arises when a player holds a two-suited hand. The ordinary rules of bidding such hands at Auction cannot be applied to Contract because the bidding usually is too high to show the other suit on the second round. As a result you must figure out a new way to bid such hands so that you will be able to show both suits without taking unjustifiable chances. Here is a hand that illustrates the difficulty very well:

Hearts—5
A Y Clubs—K, Q, 10, 8, 4
B Diamonds—A, K, Q, 9
Z Spades—K, 10, 5

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one heart, A passed and Y bid two hearts. What is B's proper bid?

At Auction B should bid three clubs and then, if overbid, he can safely bid the diamonds. At Contract, however, B must so bid his hand and diamonds and yet give his partner the choice between the two suits without obliging him to make too high a bid. The only way to obtain the desired result is for B to bid three diamonds over Y's two heart bid. Then if Z or Y bids three or four hearts, B can bid four or five clubs and if A prefers diamonds, he can overbid without increasing the contract. On the other hand, if B bids three clubs over two hearts, and Z or Y increases the bid to three or four hearts, B cannot show the diamond suit advantageously. For example, if Z should bid four hearts and A and Y pass, B would be obliged to bid five diamonds. If A should prefer clubs, he would now be obliged to bid six clubs to show his preference. The result of this analysis of bidding of two-suited hands at Contract shows the importance of bidding the higher valued suit on the first round, even though that suit is the shorter suit.

The hand held by A, the partner of B, in the foregoing deal, was as follows:

Hearts—J, 7, 4
Clubs—A, 3
Diamonds—J, 10, 7, 5
Spades—Q, 8, 3, 2

The hand was bid as follows: Z, as dealer, bid one heart, A passed, Y bid two hearts and B bid three clubs. Z bid four hearts, A and Y passed and B, unwilling to show his diamonds, bid five clubs. Z and A passed and Y doubled. The contract was defeated by two tricks. A B could have made five diamonds.

Be on the lookout for such hands at Contract and when you hold two suits of fairly equal strength bid the higher valued one first, even though it is the shorter suit.

Problem No. 23
Hearts—none
Clubs—10, 5, 3, 2
Diamonds—8
Spades—A, 10, 7

Hearts—9, 8
Clubs—K, 9, 7
Diamonds—none
Spades—Q, 9, 6

Hearts—10
Clubs—J, 8, 6, 4
Diamonds—9, 5
Spades—5

Hearts—Q, 6
Clubs—A, Q
Diamonds—10, 6
Spades—8

Spades are trumps and Z is in the lead. How can Y Z win seven of the eight tricks against any defense? Solution in the next article.

LOANS UP TO $500

Farewell to 1928—a year of politics, pow-wows and past-due bills. And especially bills. More than ten thousand families borrowed from The City Loan during the past year for the purpose of paying their bills and grouping their scattered debts. These people who now realize the advantage of just one place to pay have been able to substantially reduce their debt and still have more money for their own personal enjoyment. Some of them have entirely paid out their loans and are "square with the world." The City Loan way is the ideal way to settle up.

You just have time to arrange a loan and clean the slate of all your bills before the new year comes—it's just around the corner. May it bring you added happiness and prosperity.

CHRISTMAS PARTY OF WOMEN'S CLUB

The hospitable home of Mrs. Lloyd Jones was the scene of the annual Christmas party of the Business and Professional Women's club, Thursday night. This beautiful old home with its open fires and Christmas decorations was an ideal setting for a party of this kind.

The business meeting was devoted to the discussion of the musical comedy, "Her Song" which will be given by the club at the Grand theater on Jan. 17th and 18th. Committees were named to select the cast and make plans for rehearsals which will commence Jan. 3rd.

At the conclusion of the business presents were distributed to all those present. By some strange coincidence each one was particularly fitted to the one who received it. The president got a telephone; one member a black cat and another a dog. But most appropriate of all was the dish rag which fell to the lot of "official dish-washer and chief rag-chewer" of the club.

After the gifts had been admired, delicious Santa Claus ice cream with cake and coffee was served.

PRAYER—"Come ye that love the Lord, And let our joys be known."

STORMS OF THE SOUL

The human heart is a strange, incomprehensible thing. Feed it on misunderstanding and loneliness and it is apt to explode in an apparently meaningless fashion. In Canton, O., lived a middle-aged, respectable business man, married, and the possessor of a comfortable home. In the same city there also lived a young married woman, who, couldn't quite seem to get along smoothly with her husband.

The young woman and the middle-aged man became acquainted. Just what happened is not clear; a letter written by the young woman intimates that the man forced his attentions on her. At any rate, she brooded over it, and the fact that she did not feel able to confide in her husband made matters worse.

So, one evening, she took a revolver, went to the man's house, rang his bell, and shot him to death when he opened the door. She escaped. For a week she continued to live quietly at home with her husband, going about her daily tasks as though nothing had happened. Then her husband found in a wastebasket a crumpled note that gave him a clue. He asked her about it, and she admitted what she had done. He insisted that she give herself up.

So she got into their auto with him to drive to the jail. En route he asked her, over and over, why she did such a thing; and she would only repeat, "I don't know why I did it." She asked him what he thought would happen to her, and he replied that she probably would be sent to the electric chair.

As they drew near the jail he remarked, "Well, it won't be long now." Whereupon she drew out her revolver and shot herself to death.

From the bare outline of the facts the whole thing is incomprehensible. Why did the girl commit the murder? She herself couldn't tell. She had been lonely, miserable, unhappy in her domestic life, entangled emotionally with another man; and finally the whole thing had come to a sudden, illogical climax of murder—to be followed, a little later, by an equally unexpected suicide.

Why is all of this worth retelling at this length? Simply because it demonstrates, once more, a truth that we are too apt to forget; that misery and loneliness and misunderstanding can twist the human soul out of logical, common-sense paths and make it burst out in strange, destructive explosions.

You never know what may be fermenting in the breast of a casual acquaintance. Sympathy and forbearance often are marvelous medicines in such cases; but when they fail—when the outburst comes—the only thing left is charity. We can at least deny ourselves the luxury of condemning another person for doing something that we cannot understand.

NEW COTTON COMPETITION

American cotton producers will face serious competition from new cotton-growing regions in central Africa in the near future, warns a French economist in the current issue of The Living Age.

This writer points out that a whole network of new railways is being planned to make the rich interior of Africa available to the world markets. Cotton production there, he says, is rising rapidly, and will experience a tremendous boom once the new railway systems are in operation.

Just how greatly this will effect the cotton states of this country is not clear at this moment. Scientific management and far-sighted leadership doubtless will enable the American growers to hold their own in the face of this approaching competition. These things, one may assume, will be forthcoming as they are needed.

CABBAGES and KINGS

Lewis Carroll

HIGH SCHOOL BLUES

Oh, some day I shall have a man,
Tall and young and clean,
A splendid prince with laughing eyes,
And I shall be his queen.

And we'll live in a green roofed house
Safe hid among the trees,
With peonies and four o'clocks,
And lilacs in the breeze.

And I shall have four little sons,
To play upon the grass
That other girls may look at them
In envy, as they pass.

And afternoons—why, afternoons,
I'll dress myself all neat,
A pale blue frock, and all my rings,
And new shoes for my feet.

Oh, shoes with sapphire buckles on,
And I will smooth my frock,
And wait until my man comes home
At exactly five o'clock.

"A smile is the greatest thing in life. There is nothing like a smile to bring cheerfulness, and the world would be worth but little if there were no smiles. I always like to see any one smile. A smile makes any face attractive."

The smile stuff is the expression of John D. Rockefeller. He said it. It is old it is outworn, it is bunk. We can stand for an occasional smile as well as the next one, but we don't like smiles and never knew anybody who did. In a world that offers much to laugh at but little to smile about, we suspect smiles of hypocrisy, just as one always distrusts a man who is cheerful before breakfast.

PROSPERITY

A notion that is ever prosperous, always wise, seems to be a nation forsaken by its angels. One can see its inhabitants. They are tall and thin, with bodies cold as a fish's. They have long heads and foreheads like a woman's bare knee. They are dressed in black. Their dynasty of monarchs, for they will have sound reasonable monarchs, are called, Marph the Wise, Riga, the Opulent, Harzo the pious, Ning, the Farsighted. They are the people who always do the right thing. They will go to power and glory, everlasting. Where, also, they can go each stout man knoweth—Donn Byrne.

The farmer still arises at sun-up, and stays on the job until it is too dark to see. When it has become too dark he lights a lantern and does the chores, chores which would in themselves constitute a day's work for many a town man. Everybody says that the farmer is to be envied, and perhaps he is, but if we had a farm we would mortgage it, and live on the proceeds.

In 1930 more people than ever will own automobiles. More people than ever will owe for them. All the men will think they work too hard. Bridge players will still criticize their partners. Restaurants will be making strawberry shortcake out of this yellow stuff.

The cost of living will still be two stumps ahead of one's income. "Feng's strength," says a dispatch from China, "now totals 80,000 men, while China has 120,000,000 men, China is confident of victory." Said Chang to Feng, "I've got you whipped." Said Feng to Chang, "Your mind has slipped." Said Chang to Feng, "I've got more men." Said Feng to Chang, "I say again, I'll tell you Chang. I do not give. A single dang."

United States has a population of 127,500,000 to the square mile. That is doubtless some mere husband who forgot to mail the Christmas packages.

"The Weaving of the Green," is an Irish ballad by an unknown writer. It first appeared during the activities of the United Irishmen in 1797. Later at the time of the Fenian troubles, a revised version was introduced by Don Bogdanoff in his play "The Fenian Legend."

Odd Computation

The A. B. C. method of subtracting is the best of all. For instance, the subtraction is 9876543210 minus 123456789. What added to 8 gives 10? The answer is "2," which is the same as saying "10 minus 8."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR.

JERRY DUNN, reporter, falls in love with Ann Tremaine, a wealthy debutante. He takes her to live at his boarding house, and introduces her to a new world. She is attracted to Steve Harrison, a husky young mechanic of whom Jerry is jealous. Ann gets a job in a small theatre owned by Nick Pagalos, and later asks her employer to hire Steve. One night Pagalos makes love to Ann, and in the battle which ensues between him and Steve, the Greek is made to realize his error. That night Steve confesses his love to Ann, and they embrace. Steve leaves his job to go into the trucking business. In the meantime a blonde has been looking for Ann. She realizes it is Maizie Thompson, an ex-sweetheart of Steve's. Jerry Dunn returns from a trip and tells Ann he is no longer heartbroken over her. While they are talking, Maizie Thompson appears. She accuses Ann of having stolen Steve from her. Jerry asks Maizie what her relations with Steve were.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

ANN was aware that she was biting her lip; that she was sitting stark with nervous tension. Her disturbing affair with Steve Harrison, which she had fancied concerned only herself, and Steve—was now almost public property. Jerry's question to the girl had chilled her with a kind of cold horror.

"What do you mean, my relations with Steve?" Maizie asked.

"You know what I mean. I'm not trying to give you the worst of it—I want to help you. Have you two been—well, sweethearts?"

There was a ring of truth in the girl's voice. "No—it's not what you think. I've been decent so far as Steve's concerned. We talked about getting married and I thought—I thought if I behaved myself and went straight with him—we'd be happier in the long run."

Jerry looked at the glass she held in her hand. "Take a sip of that," Maizie obeyed. "Have a cigarette." The fingers that accepted it were slim, the nails pointed and polished.

"Well as long as you didn't cross the dead line, Maizie," he said, "then I think your broken heart might be mended after all. Maybe Steve will come back to you. There's no use getting your self upset and trying to make a tragedy out of something that has not been settled yet."

Distantly, very faintly Maizie Thompson's lips showed signs of smiling.

"I guess I've made pretty much of a fool out of myself," she said, "but I got so excited and my feelings kept bubbling so that I couldn't sleep nights." Her eyes moved toward Ann. "I understand why a dame like you would want a boy like Steve. You've got clothes and class—you've got good looks and everything, and you can have practically any man you want, yet you had to pick on a working fellow like him and give me out of the only thing on earth I give a damn about. It can't fair."

"I was difficult for you to understand the poignant emotions of the girl. Where was her pride? And the silliness of it—to accuse another woman of stealing her sweetheart. Men weren't stolen! They simply followed their inclinations. Maizie Thompson—no woman on earth—had a right to complain of any such thing as largeness of life."

"I'm sorry for you," she said to Maizie sincerely.

"I don't want any of your sympathy," the girl shot back. "All I want is for you to quit vamping Steve."

Jerry interjected a question. "Then do you think Steve would come back to you?"

"I know he would."

"I'm afraid you're deceiving yourself," he told her. "Just from what you've told me, and recognizing, of course, this other young lady's charm"—he looked at Ann and smiled, "it looks to me like your affair with Steve is all washed up. When a man seems to be through with a girl it is pretty generally a fact that he actually is through." He turned to Ann for confirmation. "Don't you think that's true?"

For a swift instant Ann had the impression Jerry was describing his own feelings. . . . was trying to tell her indirectly that the love feelings kept bubbling had evaporated.

"I'm sorry," she said, a trifle sadly, "but I'm afraid I can't help out in this discussion. If Miss Thompson has anything to settle with Steve it's a matter they must settle with each other. This whole conversation seems ridiculous to me."

There was no approval in Jerry's voice. "Well, if you choose to dodge the issue that way it's none of my business," he said.

"Sure, she'll dodge—why shouldn't she?" Maizie Thompson said antagonistically.

Ann rose. "Since you and Miss Thompson have so much in common, I think I'll leave you alone to continue your conference. Will you please unlock the door, Jerry?"

"Certainly," he said.

Maizie lifted her intent face. "You're a square guy," she said to Jerry. "Why can't you keep her here and get Steve down and have it out? I'm not such a bad sport myself. If he really cares more about her than he does about me—I guess I'll have to give him up. But I want to be sure—I don't like to leave it all so unsettled. It burns me up."

"Such scenes don't appeal to me," Ann said. "And if I were you, Miss Thompson, I wouldn't take Mr. Dunn's altruism too seriously. He's a story writer you know, and I'm afraid he's enjoying what seems to him a dramatic situation."

"You would look at it that way," Maizie said under her breath.

"Have it your way, both of you," Ann said with a trace of fatigue.

"It's evident that both of you have cast me for the role of the villain in the piece."

"You're in love with Steve," Maizie declared, almost imploringly.

"I am not," Ann's voice was cool.

"He's in love with you, then. He's told you he is—I know he did. You can't deny it. I can feel it."

Ann ignored her. "Good-night."

As Jerry unlocked the door for her and pulled it open the three persons in the room were conscious there was another presence in the hall.

It was Steve Harrison.

THEATRES

"A MAN'S PAST"

Conrad Veidt in "A Man's Past" is the feature picture to be shown at the Grand theatre tonight. The man a fugitive from justice, hid himself in the desert wastes, where he dedicated the rest of his life to doing good for others, until the long arm of the law gathered him in again. The ninth episode of "Tarzan the Mighty" will also be presented.

JUMPS THRU GLASS.

Jumping a horse from a standing start through plate glass window, is a feat of horsemanship accomplished by Fred Thompson in his latest Paramount production, "The Sunset Legion," now showing at the Metropolitan theatre. Fred rode Silver King, his famous trick horse, in this performance.

The horse cleared a barrier four feet high. Light wood window frames flew in all directions. The glass was made out of celluloid so that neither the horse nor the rider would be cut.

One of the most amazing features of the leap was the fact that the hole in the window was only four feet across and a few inches over five feet high after the leap had been made.

The popular western star and his horse were called upon to perform this feat, when he is seen as the Black Rider, a mysterious plainsman, who engulfs a band of outlaws by his thrilling and dramatic feats.

Edna Murphy, the beautiful blonde player, plays opposite the western star. William Courtwright, veteran actor, also appears in the supporting cast.

HAS NEW ROLE

Virginia Bradford, the charming young actress who was featured in "The Country Doctor," "The Wreck of the Grosvenor" and other photoplays has an excellent role that of an aviatrix, in Pathe's "Marked Money," which will be on view at the Chitrona theatre on Saturday. George Duryea plays opposite her. Junior Corbhan and Tom Kennedy also are featured.

The Herald is Growing!

NOTICE OF ELECTION

The regular annual meeting of the stockholders of the Scioto Building and Loan Company of Circleville, Ohio, will be held at the usual meeting place of said company in the City Building on Monday evening, Jan. 7, 1937, at 8 o'clock P. M. At this meeting a board of directors will be elected for the ensuing year, and such other business as may properly come before the shareholders will be considered. Took It Literally
A man who visits London annually says that he had occasion to go to a four-story building in the English metropolis. He entered the lift and 20 minutes later reached the third floor. In a factitious fashion he said to the elevator man: "Why don't you anchor this lift and move the building?" The elevator man looked at the stranger in a perplexed manner and then said: "But how can that be done, sir?"

Scientific Center
"Down House," in the county of Kent, where Darwin wrote the "Origin of Species," has recently been given to the British Association for the Advancement of Science. The house will become a library of works on evolution and on Darwin. Students will have the opportunity of consulting original manuscripts and documents concerning Darwin and his writings.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

IN STATE CHORUS

Twenty-three students from Circleville high school went to Columbus Thursday to sing in the all state High School Chorus in the auditorium at Central high school. They were accompanied by Miss Helen Wittich, who had taught and drilled them in the high school here.

A thousand high school students registered to sing in the chorus but this number was diminished by the prevalence of influenza among the students. The singers from Circleville left on the 8:09 traction car, and spent some time in rehearsal in the morning and afternoon, as did all students who were to sing. The chorus as a whole sang from 7:45 until 8:45 in the evening. They were directed by Griffith J. Jones, Glenville high school, Cleveland.

The program that follows was sung by the chorus:

- 1—Christmas Hymns (Chorus and Audience)
- 1—Silent Night
- 2—Joy to the World
- 3—The First Noel
